GERBER, Cal., Aug. 8. — This is written on the "Cascade," fine Southern Pacific train that runs between Seattle and Los Angeles. In the dining car an easterner absorbs a glass of orange juice, a plateful of fresh, ripe figs and a very large piece of pink Persian melon. Then he begins his breakfast—eggs from Petaluma, bacon from Oakland, etc. Paul Shoup, who runs this road, buys Pacific coast products. The "Cascade" leaves Portland at 10 p. m. You ride through Oregon until 8 in the morning, then all day, half way through California to San Francisco, arriving at 8 p. m. This is a big country.

IF YOU have energy and ambition, bring them here. You need not be young; you will live a whole natural life after you get here, anyhow.

THE Columbia river, that runs by Portland, can supply, with its tributaries, 22,000,000 electric horsepower, now practically undeveloped, one-third of the nation's horsepower. The Columbia, with nearly as much water as the Mississippi, floods no land and affords a deep-water harbor more than 100 miles from its mouth.

THE Columbia drains only 250,000 square miles, against the Mississippi basin of 1,250 000 square miles. Columbia water, rushing from the Rockies and the ridge of the Cascade, develops the 22,000 000 horsepower that in direct return and industrial production will be worth billions a year to Oregon and Washington.

UNTIL recently, 40,000,000 cords of wood were wasted in this region every year and 40 per cent of lumber passing through the mills was lost. Sawdust alone wasted 15 per cent. Great furnaces were built to burn it. Now waste wood is made into fiber boards used for containers and other purposes.

POWER and water, foundation of industry and wealth, are here. The Columbia carries into the ocean 200,000 000 acre feet of water a year—enough to cover 200,000,000 acres one foot deep.

The Williamette brings down from the mountains 30,000,000 more acre feet.

THE gigantic Colorado river, destined under President Hoover's management to do so much for states within its reach, flows only 16,000,000 acre feet on the average.

AT ONE place on the Columbia, 2,000,000 horsepower can be developed, at another 1,000,000 horsepower. Some day that power will be harnessed and used to irrigate every foot of land that needs irrigation and supply to industry power and water unlimited. This region could feed, house and employ the nation's 120,000,000 and pay them well.

ONE great chemical plant at Tacoma, buying power for $21 a year per horsepower, and water for two cents a ton from publicly-

BEATTY CITES HIS ROLE AS OHIO DEMOCRAT

Pottery Salesman Speaks Before Crowd of 1,000.

OUTLINES PLANS

Mayoralty Candidate Pledges Jobs for 3,000.

Asserting that he had "done more for the Democratic party than any other person in the state of Ohio," James C. B. Beatty, pottery salesman, pleaded for support of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for mayor at next Tuesday's primaries, before a crowd of 1,000 men and women at a raliy in East Fourth street last night.

"Eelect me mayor of the city and I will provide jobs for 3,000 workers within 24 months," Beatty declared. "I will have a man in East Liverpool who is willing to erect a plant employing 500 men within 48 hours after my election.

"I know what I can accomplish if I am elected mayor."

Advocates Wage Increase.

Beatty turned his guns on the "huge profits" of the Ohio Bell Telephone company. He declared that eight out of 10 employes on the state payroll are "not 14 years of age mentally" and that he would have "fired half of them had I been elected governo. last year."

Beatty asserted that he favored a 10 percent increase in wages for all workers.

He also attacked the Anti-Saloon league. The stand of Governor Albert Ritchie of Maryland, at the recent governors' meeting in Connecticut, was lauded by Beatty, who also praised former Governor Alfred E Smith of New York.

"If you want to vote for me in the primaries next Tuesday, ask for a Democratic ballot," Beatty advised "Let the precinct officials swear you if they want but get your ballot. If they refuse it, come to me an I'll change their minds."

Another Address Friday Night.

Beatty said that he was threatened with arrest for giving this advice at his meeting in East End last week.

"But I can't be bluffed," he added. "I have seen the jail from inside and out. I know what it is," he concluded.

Three members of the police force were on hand to preserve order and to direct traffic during Beatty's meeting. The candidate spoke from a truck.

Beatty announced today that he will make his final address of the campaign in front of the Carnegie library at 8 o'clock Friday night.

SNOOK WEEPS AS HE ADMITS KILLING CO-ED

Professor, Hitherto Cold As Ice, Near Collapse.

DESCRIBES CRIME

Deadly Silence as Professor Tells Story of Murder.

By JAMES L. KILLGALLEN.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

COURTROOM, COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 8.—Dr. James Howard Snook wept on the witness stand today as he confessed that he murdered Theora Hix, co-ed beauty, and described, with dramatic emphasis, exactly how he did it.

"I hit her with the hammer as we quarreled in the car, parked on the rifle range," he testified amid deadly silence in the crowded courtroom. "I hit her again, and again.

"As she slid out of the car, I struck her one more blow with the hammer and she staggered and fell, her head striking the running board.

"The next thing I remember I was sitting on the running board, my head in my hands."

Defendant Shivers on Stand.

Snook, hitherto cold as ice on the stand, shivered. He seemed on the verge of a collapse.

For a full minute he paused, not uttering a word. The courtroom clock could be heard ticking. Then, removing his nose glasses and wiping his eyes, he moaned:

"Heavens knows, she was a good friend of mine. I never thought that I would do it."

Up to the point where he was asked to tell the jury of the murder on the rifle range, the former Ohio State university professor had told, with simple directness, all that had gone before. How he and Theora had been motoring; their various conversations; their quarrel after he parked the car on the range because he said he was going away over the week-end to a family reunion at Lebanon, O., his mother's home.

Suddenly she seized him. They scuffled.

Snook paused. He could not go on. He bowed his head. His frame shook. He removed his glasses and wiped his eyes with his handkerchief. The jury waited. So did the spectators. The battery of newspaper men with poised pencils and even the case-hardened court bailiff.

Girl Fought Back.

"I hit her," Snook finally blurted out. "I hit her with the hammer that Mother Kills Daughter As She Sleeps, Then Turns Gun On Herself At Huntington, W. Va.

Nervous Breakdown Blamed for Double Tragedy.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 8.—(INS)—With a volume entitled, "This Passion Called Love," and a hand mirror lying at her side, Miss Madeline Wilson, 18-year old high school graduate, was shot and killed by her young mother as she lay asleep in her bedroom today. The mother, only 36 years of age, and a former Akron, O., resident, then killed herself.

The woman was the wife of Burt L. Wilson, wealthy Huntington business man. The family moved here ten years ago from Akron.

When police arrived at the home, a "show-place," here, they found the daughter lying in her bed with the ghost of a smile still hovering about her lips as if the fatal bullet in her temple had ended a pleasant dream.

Woman's Hands Burned.

A summer breeze wafter the curtains laxily from the windows, but the sharp tang of gunpowder was still heavy on the air.

The mother, a thin little woman, lay crumpled on the floor beside the bed, with both hands clasping the .32 caliber revolver.

Her face was drawn with an almost hideous expression of pain. It was apparent from the powder burns on both of her hands that she had been forced to use all her strength to pull the trigger, at least on the second cartridge.

Note's Contents Not Disclosed.

The marriage of the Wilsons resulted from a childhood romance. Mrs. Wilson was formerly Miss Elizabeth Wolfe, daughter of Dennis Wolfe, of Spencer, W. Va. She married Burt Wilson at the age of 17.

Mrs. Wilson had been suffering from extreme nervousness recently.

Note was left by the woman, but authorities, at the request of the family, did not disclose the contents.

Globe-Circling Craft Sighted Off Coast of Maine By Steamship

Giantress of Air, With 22 Passengers and Crew Of 41 Aboard, Hums Along Above Rolling Atlantic, at Point 500 Miles East of Lakehurst, N. J.

COURSE IS CHANGED AFTER HUGE SHIP PASSES OVER NEW YORK CITY

Smooth-clicking Team of American Gobs and Marines Sends German Dirigible on Its Way While Military Band Plays "It's a Long, Long Trail Awinding."

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—(INS)—At noon today the Graf Zeppelin reported herself 610 miles east of New York, in 40.12 north latitude and 60.35 west longitude. Since 8 a. m. her motors had clipped off an average speed of 56 miles an hour.

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—(INS)—Humming along in the sunlight approximately 1,000 feet above the rolling Atlantic at a speed estimated by naval officials at approximately 70 miles an hour, the Graf Zeppelin, on the first day of her globe-circling air voyage with 22 passengers and a crew of 41 aboard, today was speeding east from her starting point at Lakehurst, N. J.

From compass bearings taken by the dirigible with naval compass stations along the New England coast naval officials reckoned that at 10 a. m. (E. D. T.) she was approximately 540 miles from Lakehurst. She was many miles off the coast of Maine and going strong.

She had been sighted by the steamship Commercial Trader but was not seen from the land after she left Fire Island, N. Y.

During the first stages of her flight after passing over New York City naval officials thought that apparently she was planning to follow the same course toward the Azores that she used in her recent voyage by air from Germany to America, but later she shifted from a south southeast course to one east.

Weather Is Clear.

CHATHAM, Mass., Aug. 8.—(INS)—Flying at an altitude of approximately 1,000 feet above the Atlantic and headed east, the Graf Zeppelin was sighted today by the freight steamship Commercial Trader.

Wireless reports sent shoreward by the operator aboard the Commercial Trader stated that the big dirigible was seen above the steamship at 5:40 a. m., (E. D. T.) in latitude 40:15 north longitude 67:20 west, that being the position of the freighter at the time.

The operator aboard the Commercial Trader stated in a message picked up here this forenoon by the Radio Corporation of America station that the weather was clear and that the Zeppelin was easily visible.

Motors Sang Auf Wiedersehn.
By DAVID P. SENTNER.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 8.—(INS)—The Graf Zeppelin was speeding toward its place in the sun today.

Magnifying the dream of Jules Verne, the man-made piece of silver cloth and duralumin they call a dirigible was well away on its flight around the world.

Its motors sang Auf Wiedersehn at 12:40 a. m. (Eastern Daylight Time) today.

A shadowy silver bar gemmed with cabin lights, its take-off was a thing of beauty. The historic episode was also studded with a flavor of international friendship. A smooth-clicking team of American gobs and marines sent the German dirigible on its way while a military band played the 22 passengers aboard into the horizon with "It's a Long, Long Trail Awinding."

Arches City of Skyscrapers.

Before heading toward Friedrichshafen, its first stop, the Graf Zeppelin arched proudly over the City of Skyscrapers, out - electrifying Times Square, flirting with the Woolworth tower and setting the official time of the world circuit at 15 minutes before 2 o'clock, (Eastern Daylight

KENTUCKY MAN, 73, ILL, KILLS SELF

The aged man procured a shotgun, placed it against his head and then blew out his own brains by pulling the trigger with a string he had previously attached to it.

Poor health is believed to have incited his act.

14 NEW STREET LIGHTS ORDERED

Ohio Power company linemen began work today on the installation of 14 street lights, 12 of which are being placed in territory annexed by city about 18 months ago.

Nine lights will be placed in Beechwood, three along the Lincoln highway section beyond Pleasant Heights one at Erie and Sylvian streets and another at State and Beleek streets. All lights will contain 100 candlepower globes.

About 35 street lights were installed after common pleas court upheld the county commissioners in approving the annexation plan, which added approximately 3,000 persons to the city's population. The city water lines have been extended to a large section of the newly-acquired territory.

WEST WILL GET CLEARING HOUSE FOR PROBLEMS

Information Bureau Will Open in Salt Lake City.

GOVERNORS' RALLY

Officials of Public Lands States Meet Aug. 26-27.

By M. F. Dacey,
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.

DENVER.—A "clearing house" for information on subjects vital to the progress and development of the west will be opened in Salt Lake City when the governors and other public officials of the so-called public land states gather on Aug. 26 and 27 next.

States expected to be represented are California, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Nevada and Arizona.

Governor Frank C. Emerson, of Wyoming, who will be joint secretary of the conference with Governor H. C. Balbridge, of Idaho, told International News Service here that the meeting will be of outstanding importance, as there "is certainly need of the western states uniting in a defense alliance against certain developments that seem to seriously threaten the progress and prosperity of this section."

Subjects Considered.

Subjects to be considered, Governor Emerson said, will include public land policies with particular reference to the recent utterances of Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, concerning the proposal to cede vacant and unappropriated public lands to the states reserving the mineral rights to the United States government, and reclamation of arid lands, with special attention to means of combatting the unfair propaganda that is now being disseminated throughout the country against federal reclamation.

The tentative agenda, according to the Wyoming governor, also will include discussion of legislation to provide additional federal funds for the construction of highways across lands owned by the federal government; the oil policies of the Hoover administration and legislation and other matters of interest in relation to aeronautics.

A spirit of revolt has been manifest on teh part of western states recently against what is characterized as the usurpation of states' rights by the federal government, and the asserted interference by numerous government bureaus in the activities of individual states.

Land Problems.

This spirit was much in evidence during the Hoover oil conference at Colorado Springs early in June when the order of Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, withdrawing oil and gas permits on public lands was the subject of severe criticism.

Only recently in a radio address from Washington, United States Senator King, of Utah, urged a "renaissance of the spirit of states' rights" and a "revolt against federal usurpation," declaring a strong determination was necessary to resist the forces that are "drawing the states within the swirling maelstrom of a new federalism."

Senator King said a "powerful bureaucracy" is being established in the United States with almost unlimited power. More than 800,000 persons clothed with federal authority constitute this clossal bureaucracy, he declared.

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. THE ANNUAL SALE OF FINE FURS

Beginning Saturday Offers Special Buying Opportunities

Everything is in favor of the Woman or Miss with the wisdom to select furs in mid-summer.

The furs and fur coats that are offered you at this time of the year, are made of skins taken in the "prime" months when furs are at their best. They have been cured slowly and painstakingly, and not rushed through these processes. When the manufacturer makes up this prime peltrie into coats to sell in mid-summer he is not over-burdened with rush orders and these garments are turned out leisurely—so to speak; unlike those finished for the regular season, which garments may possibly be made up under pressure and less painstakingly. The result is that the manufacturer offers better furs for the money and in addition to that our furs are marked at special prices for the month of August. Our showing this season offers you the smartest furs developed from the finest peltries matched with beauty and workmanship. Suave in line, perfect in cut and finish, distinctive in detail.

THREE-WEEK REST

Rev. Charles R. Loney And Family go to Illinois.

Following a three-week vacation in Ohio, the Rev. Dr. Warren O Hawkins, accompanied by his son and daughter, John and Miss Martha, have returned to their home in West Fifth street. Mrs. Hawkins will remain another week at Lakeside.

Rev. Charles R. Loney, the assistant pastor, left yesterday with Mrs. Loney and their young son, Charles, for a two-week visit with relatives in their home town of Galena, Ill. During a part of this time the Rev. Mr. Loney will attend the Bible conference conducted by the Rev. Dr. W. E. Biederwolf and others at Winona Lake, Ind.

At Lakeside at the present time are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crooks, of West Fifth street, and their daughter, Miss Phyll's. For a portion of Rev. Dr. Hawkins' stay there, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Keys and family also visited the place.

Preached at Maxburg.

Following a week at the Bethesda conference the Rev. Dr. Hawkins and his family went to Maxburg, Ohio, where he held his first pastorate. He preached there on Sunday, July 28, the occasion of the church's twenty-fifth anniversary.

Crowds of people for miles around attended this event, it being held in a village which has the distinction of producing the first oil well in the state before the Civil war. The church in this quarter of a century has had nine pastors, but one of whom, the Rev. J. D. Nulton, has died.

All of them were invited to the anniversary celebration and several, among whom was the Rev. Harry Peebles, of Salineville, attended.

Visited His Mother.

Following and before his Maxburg visit and before going to Lakeside, the Rev. Mr. Hawkins spent several days with his mother, Mrs. Martha Elizabeth Hawkins, at Stafford, O.

During his Lakeside stay, he and his family heard addresses by Bishop Charles Wesley Burns, of San Francisco, Calif., and Edgar Blake, of Indianapolis, Ind., and the Rev. Dr. George, noted pastor of the First Baptist church of Ottawa, Canada. Dr. Luther Weigle, of the Boston university, also spoke. Rev. Dr. Hawkins said that visitors at Lakeside this year are much impressed with the new auditorium which has just been erected at a cost of $150,000.

Let's Speed Fire Station Job

Indications are East Liverpool's proposed downtown fire station, which will replace the structure, odered razed by State Fire Marshall Ray R. Gill, will not be ready for occupancy before New Year's day, for the board of control yesterday afternoon rejected four bids because the proposals exceeded the funds available under the $60,000 provided by action of council.

Exclusive of lighting fixtures, the cost of the construction work, heating system, architect's fees, etc., would total at least $60,730, under bids submitted by general contractors and plumbers. And the city has but $52,500 to pay the bill, for $7,500 of the original appropriation has been set aside to pay for the Frank Dickey property, adjoining the old site.

However, $52,500 is no small sum of money, and judging from substantial structures which have been erected at less than this figure, East Liverpool should be able to construct a fire station to meet municipal needs and at the same time satisfy anyone who is interested in civic pride.

The only solution of the problem is revision of the plans and specifications. And it would not be amiss to seek the advice of builders before making the changes.

Let's speed up the job, for a second call for bids will mean at least three weeks' delay.

Protection

Five policy holders who died during the year 1928 carried life insurance in excess of $1,000,000 each. One of the five had his life insured for more than $5,000,000. Paid claims on policies of more than $100,000 each reached the immense total of $59,621,000, while claims above $30,000 each amounted to $85,363,000.

The above facts as compiled from information furnished by 150 of the leading insurance companies in the country are impressive as indicating that some of the nation's wealthy men and women place substantial investments in life insurance, but there is another and even more interesting side to the picture.

In the same period of time, life insurance companies paid out more than $2,000,000,000 to beneficiaries in death claims. This stupendous sum includes all of the policies in the $30,000 and $100,000 and the $1,000,000 classes and a host of others in lesser amounts. From this it can be readily seen that the bulk of disbursements made by insurance companies in 1928 went to the dependents of ordinary men, many of whom, no doubt, paid their permiums at a sacrifice.

Thus it appears that life insurance has a more popular appeal to the man of modest income than to the man who computes his wealth by the millions. Above all, the man of ordinary means, in buying insurance, is motivated by a desire to do all within his power to safeguard his wife and family in the event of his death. The dependents of a millionaire usually are well provided with funds from other sources.

Estate and inheritance taxes, imposed by the federal government and by many states, account for some of the larger policies. Too often, in order to close an estate, it becomes necessary to sell some of the choiciest assets to meet national and state tax demands. In such instances a substantial life insurance policy will preserve valuable assets and at the same time solve an acute financial problem.

Changing economic conditions have brought about a vast development in life insurance. There was little or no need for this type of protection before the advent of industry when families were maintained generation after generation on farm land. Even though the crops were scanty in many instances, they were sufficient to sustain life. Accustomed to labor in the fields, women found no particular hardship in providing for their families after the death of their husbands.

Life in the present day is far more complicated, and specialized trades in which the husband and father engages and from which he derives a lucrative income, cannot be picked up readily by his widow after his death. He finds it convenient, therefore, during his lifetime to set aside a certain portion of his income to protect the future of his family. The business of life insurance has grown up and developed to amazing proportions to meet this specific demand.

Selling The Town

A town where police tickets for parking violations contain no notification of an impending fine, a community in which patrolmen welcome visitors and allow them to park overtime with no penalty—that is Hackettstown, N. J. It has applied the ideal of service to the town as well as to the commercial establishments within the town.

Hackettstown's public officials reason that unless tourists can find a convenient place to stop they may decide to drive on to another town to do their shopping. It is merely a matter of competition so far as they are concerned.

The ticket which police issue to motorists making a slight infringement of parking rules is headed "Courtesy to Visitors," and invites them to become friendly with policemen and to look over the sights of the town, and, most important of all, it advertises unlimited parking time for visitors. These almost unbelievable words of cheer and good hope are affixed to the parked car within a few minutes after it stops.

Civic officials who sally forth at periodic intervals to make a wholesale haul of cars violating parking ordinances might well take note of the situation in Hackettstown, described as an oasis in the inhospitable desert of hundreds of American towns which worry parking motorists. Advertising is too potent a factor in modern America to disregard the far-reaching effects that an arbitrary parking fine may have on a transient motorist

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 8.—A neat trick, calculated to annoy the wealthy American captains of industry who by many Europeans are held responsible for the impending high tariff on imports to this country, is being seriously considered abroad, especially in England. It is a restriction on export of works of art and precious antiques which, in modern times, have become so dear to the hearts of American millionaires.

European countries and especially England feel that they are being denuded of their most treasured works of art. For some years there has been uneasiness on this score. It has been felt by these people that Americans, so often referred to as barbarians, do not really appreciate the famous paintings, tapestries, sculpture, jewelry, and furniture which they buy, but merely purchase them for the satisfaction of showing that they can outbid the traditional owners and to obtain the show-off which attendant publicity accords.

There is no doubt about the ability of foreign governments to stop sales to Americans. Indeed, the matter has just been raised in the British parliament, and other European nations also are considering the question. Italy, for some time, has restricted export of certain works of art. Permission to bring an art treasure to the United States must be obtained from the Italian government authorities.

The movement of European art treasures to the United States is accelerating. Monthly increases for 1929 thus far are $1,000,000 ahead of last year's record. In 1928 imports of works of art over a hundred years old amounted to the colossal sum of $46,914,000. For the first four months of 1928 imports of this character amounted to $9,434,800. For the first four months of 1929 the same classification shows $16,794,000.

What constitutes an additional irritant to the Europeans in this situation is that while the United States now has pending in its congress a measure which will keep out the products of their factories and fields, that is, the work of living persons, it imposes no tariff whatever on works of art over a hundred years old.

Such a situation seems unfair to countries where labor parties constantly are gaining strength. In England, from which country American millionaires buy $3,000,000 or $4,000,000 worth of works of art a year, the Labor party is in power and while Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald is not anxious to have any friction with Americans at a time when both nations are seeking disarmament, the workers who placed his party in power, feel that it would be a proper move to prevent Americans from absorbing English art treasures unless they are willing to let the products of living workers come into the United States under a reasonable duty.

One reason why Americans buy more art works from England than any other country is that England herself was formerly in the position now occupied by the United States; that is, the country of dominant wealth. Therefore she has collections from all over the world. The Earl of Elgin, it will be remembered, was the man who went to Athens and collected famous sculptures from the Parthenon, bringing them to England where they still are known as the Elgin Marbles. He set a fashion which Englishmen followed for a long while. It was quite the thing for rich Englishmen to buy up old statues, vases, and other antiquities for a song and bring them home to adorn their houses and museums. The practice of dismantling old palaces and temples came to be known as Elginism.

Economic forces as much and probably more than artistic appreciation dictated such actions then as they do now. The Greeks and Italians were impoverished and were happy to part for ready cash with antiquities of which they thought comparatively little because they had so many. Today, when the war and the high taxes and the many alterations which have taken place in the last ten years have reduced the wealth of great families in England, they too have reached the time when they will part with their treasures in return for cash.

The people as a whole greatly dislike to see their works of art go to other countries but when it comes to an individual trade it is difficult for the individual Englishman involved to refuse the cold cash which will relieve his distress.

In one way, a strict prohibition of any future export of works of art to the United States would be a tremendous favor to such Americans as already have made purchases. It would be difficult to calculate the sensational leap in value which the art works already here would experience, if the source of further works should be definitely cut off. Also, such a measure might prove a boomerang to the European countries. No work of art is sold without the expectation or at least the hope of re-purchasing it when better times come. A good deal of re-purchasing is being done all the time. But if an embargo were laid, raising prices of works already owned here, the price charged in re-purchase would be enormous. It probably would be called Yankee luck.

Q. Please name some rodeos other than the one held in Cheyenne. J. M. J.

A. The Pendleton Rodeo, The Calvary Stampede, World's Championship Rodeo, New York City, the other Championship Rodeo in Chicago, and one held in Salinas, California, are all events of importance.

Q. Please describe the carillon that is in Indianapolis. A. B. M.

A. The carillon given by Arthur R. Baxter to the new Scottish Rite Cathedral in Indianapolis, Indiana, dedicated there in May, has sixty-three bells ranging in weight from a few pounds up to twelve tons. The carillon differs from chimes, in that its bells are stationary. This one may be played in three ways: from a keyboard similar to the organ or piano; from a clavier, worked by handles and pedals; and by perforated rolls.

Q. Is agar made in this country? H. D. M.

A. There is a plant in California which manufactures agar from the sea fern which grows off the coast of California.

Q. What is light? S. H. W.

A. Light is radiant energy. Modern scientists say there are many lines of evidence showing that light is simply electrical waves. The waves which are called light because they happen to affect our eyes are not essentially different from the longer and the shorter ones which we make use of in other ways.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8.—To my notion the two most romantically interesting cities in America are New Orleans and San Francisco. Certainly, outside of Paris, no city has learned so successfully to mix work and play and enjoy life to the fullest as this.

San Francisco is modern and newly built yet its historic past sticks through. Along its torturous up and down hill paths as well as along broad flat avenues you feel the breath of old Spain, of the Argonauts, of the Vigilantes, of Canton, of the mountains and the seven seas.

It is difficult to imagine that in the span of a single lifetime, San Francisco has sprung up from a tiny Mission rancho to one of the world's most cosmopolitan centers. Add to that the achievement of being leveled by fire and built up again in the interim.

I was fortunate on this trip to approach the city from beautiful Del Monte by motor in the sunny glare of a dew spangled morning. The tumbling hills seemed aerawl with life and the soaring skyline radiated splendor. The air was tangy—'Nature's own rouge," if you care for a Chamber of Commerce blurb.

When you come to San Francisco you must observe the climate and here's my notice: The difference between summer and winter temperature is 6.3 degrees. But if you are caught in late afternoon without a light overcoat when the fog and chill come up you are in for a mess of teeth chattering.

Market street is the city's Big Artery—its Broadway. If you get lost keep on walking. You always come back to Market. In fact the only way to keep off Market is to leave town. For a prairie boy, the city is utterly fascinating with its cyclorama of hills and majestic mountains with snowy finger tips.

There is Telegraph Hill. Also Nob Hill and Russian Hill—just to name a few of the seven. And if you want an an eyeful of San Francisco that will leave you limp drive up to that figure eight motorway looping about the 900 foot hills known as Twin Peaks. It is a swell cure for agnosticism.

San Francisco's acres of two storied frame house with bulging bay windows are outmoded by its Montgomery street skyscraper and financial district and yet they strike this observer's fancy. They have a neat lace curtained domesticity that is no longer visible in New York. You think of one of Eddie Guest's sentimental beatitudes "a heap o'livin" or something mushy like that.

Cafes are like the old world manner. In French places, Papa meets you at the door and seems tickled pink you are there. Mama sits complacently knitting at the cashier's desk. The italian restaurants are also the leisurely sort where modern decorations are sacrificed for good cooking. The best of them cling to red plush furniture, mirrors with lump gilt frames—and always a friendly, meowing cat.

San Francisco greets reference to fogs with a polite change of subject and yet this uneven phase of climate attracts more people than the city realizes. The fog has the thickness of pea soup, is clinging, damp and penetrating and comes up almost every day. Yet is wraps for a brief time the exotic peaks in a halo of mystery that is beguiling and nothing is more entrancing than to watch the mists evaporate, leaving the city stark and sheer on its mighty bluffs.

For reasons, which for the moment escape me, I accepted an invitation to a luncheon of all Chinese dishes. I yield to no one in my admiration for the Chinese for almost every virtue save the culinary. We used to slop the hogs with something like what I was served. And my eyes are still crossed from spearing a raw fish out of a bowl of I-don't-know-what.

The Orpheum theater, cradle of the vaudeville circut by that name, has finally hung up the shutters. It is like the passing of a rare old friend.

And the old Barbary Coast has the bleak desolation of an abandoned warehouse district. It was once my job—what a business I picked out!—to spend two weeks there learning of its vice for an Eastern newspaper. It was then the gayest place in the world.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

Habit, custom and tradition have fixed in our minds all sorts of convictions about things. A notable example is the popular idea that rheumatism is the result of exposure to weather. Cold and moisture are supposed to produce the symptoms usually called 'rheumatic."

Of course, scientific physicians no longer hold to this belief. They recognize rheumatism as merely the evidence of some sort of an infection. They do not dispute that cold and damp weather may increase the pain, but the disease itself they regard as being due to an infection.

It isn't easy to get away from ideas we have held all our lives. We hate to be convinced that scarlet fever and smallpox are not transmitted through the air, but are contracted only by direct physical contact with the afflicted one.

Where is there a man or woman past 50 who cannot recall running past a neighbor's house and on the other side of the street at that, a house where there was a sign, "measles" or "diphtheria?" You even held your breath and perhaps pinched your nose tightly so not to breathe in the "miasm."

But we are forced to accept these "new fangled" ideas about the "contagious" diseases. So we must revise our thought about rheumatism. We must seek some local disease, in tonsils, teeth, or elsewhere, to find the real cause of this ailment.

There are various types of rheumatism. It may be active or chronic; it may be muscular or in the joints. it may be called "lumbago" or "stiff neck." It has various names, but no matter where it is or what form it takes, the causes are the same.

Many young children have adenoids and diseased tonsils. They may be harboring dangerous germs. Not only rheumatism, but also heart disease may be traced to adenoids and tonsils.

You should talk with your doctor if you suspect trouble of this sort. Early attention may spare your child all sort of pain and inconvenience. Rheumatism may be headed off and a lifetime of comfort provided by your foresight.

A mouthful of bad teeth, with pussy gums and abscesses, will lay the foundation for much distress. If the joints or muscles are sore to the touch, or painful, take pains to find out what is wrong. Some remote disturbance, easily corrected by proper treatment, may be responsible for unnecessary disease.

Have your doctor advise treatment after examination. There must be some underlying cause which must be located and treated first of all before the symptoms will disappear.

Gouging Tourists.

American tourists in parts of Ontario are protesting against being gouged by hotel and restaurant keepers. They are doing it with a vehemence that is attracting the attention of a province that tapped tourist pockets to the tune of $100,000,000 last year and therefore is inclined to listen to the voice of the goose that lays the golden egg. They have a right to protest, when they are stung, whether in their own country or any other. They also have the right to give the gougers a wide berth, which they are likely to exercise if the process of painful extraction continues.

At the same time, Americans should not set down this reprehensible practice to international prejudice. Gouging tourists is not a pecularly Canadian vice. American hotel and restaurant keepers and tradesdmen have been known to raise their prices during the open season for easy marks. Country constables and justices on this side of the line rode tourists hard until a few of them were sent to jail. A dollar and a half for a dish of bacon and eggs sounds pretty stiff even for the Niagara peninsula; but it should be remembered that a similar inducement to switch to caviar is held out in parts of the United States, at this season of the year, where there is no such esthetic compensation as Niagara Falls provide.

Americans can make their bacon and eggs more palatable by assuming that the extension to Canada of the old army game of fleecing the innocent is just one more evidence of the "Americanization" of the dominion. They should try to feel at home among prices that remind them of sad experiences on their own side of the border. As a last resort they might appeal from the pocketbook of the Canadian gouger to his patriotism, which should prevent him from imperting even so profitable a custom from a country that is preparing to raise its tariff on its exports.—Detroit Free Press.

By J. J. Mundy.

"Check Book or Cash."

Because you have a check book, do you spend more money than you should?

It is easier for you to write a check than to hand out the money.

Have you failed to reach the point where you look upon the check as representing the amount for which it is written?

Can you not recall certain times when you have written checks for very unnecessary expenses over which had you been obliged to pay in currency from your pocket you would have hesitated?

You deposit a large percentage of your earnings, but at the end of the month you find your bank account has not increased much.

When you look over your returned checks you wonder how you ever had the thoughtlessness to spend so much on what would bring you so little

You see that you might have saved many dollars if you had been careful.

But your regrets do not do you much good.

A savings account faithfully kept up might help you.

It would if you put it where you could not check it out.

Don't let your pen run away with your good judgment.

If you cannot control it, you will not add to your bank account.

ANNIE LAURIE'S TIMELY ADVICE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young man twenty-one years of age, and am engaged to a girl eighteen years of age.

I have been going with this girl for over a year, and last month one of her friends told me that my girl went to a show with another man. This girl admitted she did after I asked her about it, but said she did it just for a dare. I forgave her after she promised she would never do it again.

Now, Annie Laurie, last Sunday I had a date with her and when I went to call for her one of her friends told me she went to her home and to meet me at a certain place at 9:30. I waited for an hour and a half and then saw her with another boy taking her home. I let it go for that night because it was too late, but went down to see her next day. She told me she was at the dance and saw me, but lost me in the crowd.

Please tell me what to do, Annie Laurie. I don't want to think she is going with someone else, but what else can I think? I love her so, but if she does this to me shall I quit her, or what will I do? Please advise me.

BOBBY.

BOBBY: It looks to me as if this girl does not love you in the way a woman should love the man she is going to marry. But, remember, she is young and may not be ready to assume the responsibilities and "oneness" of marriage. I should suggest that you postpone your marriage until you are sure that she loves you as you want to be loved.

MONTE BLUE HIT IN MARINE STORY

All the lazy charm of a little village in the tropics is shown in "From Headquarters," Monte Blue's latest production for Warner Bros., with its scenes laid in and around the little town of San Marcalo. The picture is the attraction at the Ceramic theater today, tomorrow and Saturday.

The crooked, twisting streets; the picturesque buildings with their thatched roofs; the latticed windows, with the bars formed of small tree branches bound together with leather thongs; the black-skinned natives, wandering leisurely to and fro, or lounging in convenient corners; the great oxen, drawing creaking carts; the flocks of ducks and chickens feeding in the streets—all convey an atmosphere that tells of an aimless existence in equatorial regions.

Into this picturesque town come the United States marines, and the entire region awakens to a series of dramatic incidents. And eventually their activities reveal the secret of the mysterious "Happy" Smith, an American citizen who has spent nine years as a soldier of fortune in this benighted region.

Monte Blue plays the role of Smith, and other members of the cast are Ethlyne Clair, Guinn Williams, Gladys Brockwell, Joseph Girard, Lionel Belmore, Henry B. Walthall, Eddie Gribbon and Pat Hartigan. Howard Bretherton directed "From Headquarters," and the original story by Samuel Hartridge was adapted for the screen by Harvey Gates. "From Headquarters" is fine, strong and intensely human.

"DRAG" IS STORY OF MAIN STREET

A corner drugstore was transplanted from Main Street to the First National-Vitaphone lot at Burbank, California, for the making of "Drag," the new Richard Barthelmess starring vehicle now at the American theater.

The drug store was duplicated to the minutest details from an original in a small town in Nebraska. It is here that some of the most amusing scenes in "Drag" take place, here that the village drugstore cowboys crack wise and the young flappers make their rendezvous. It is here that David Carroll, played by Barthelmess, having just arrived to take over the local "Courier," meets Lila Lee and the romance begins in a unique, American way.

Barthelmess has an excellent supporting cast including Alice Day, Katherine Ward, Tom Dugan, Lucien Littlefield and others. William Dudley Pelley wrote the original in novel form and it was adapted to the screen by Bradley King and Gene Towne.

"TALKIE" STUDIO SHOWN ON SCREEN

Full details of how talking pictures are made are shown to the motion picture public for the first time in "The Studio Murder Mystery," Paramount's latest all-talking thriller, which is now at the State theater. An all-star cast, including many stage stars, acts this mystery melodrama which was directed by Frank Tuttle.

The revelations of talking moving picture technique are possible because the action of "The Studio Murder Mystery" occurs largely within a mythical motion picture studio and the characters are persons connected with the screen.

"The sequence which uncovers the real technique of audible movies," explains Director Tuttle, "shows a director shooting a scene on a carnival lot. One of our characters is a bystander and, while watching the making of this episode, he obtains a clue which solves two murders.

"First of all, cinema audiences see the brilliantly lighted carnival set, peopled with ballyhoo performers. Suspended over the heads of the actors are the microphones that pick up voices and carry them to the amplifying and recording apparatus.

"A short distance away from the actors are two peculiar objects that look like war-time tanks. They contain the cameras and are constructed of soundproof materials to keep camera noises away from the microphones. A double plate glass window is set in an aperture in the front of each tank and it is through these windows that scenes are photographed. The operators of the cameras wear headphones during the filming process and can hear everything that is said on the set while synchronizing devices keep the cameras in accord with the recording apparatus in another part of the building.

THOUSANDS HAVE WATCHED THIS ENGINE

PROVE THAT—there is a difference in gasoline

THE demonstration itself is simple. An electric knock-detecting device is attached to the engine.

Ordinary gasoline is run into the carburetor. The engine, choked with carbon, starts. Immediately knocking commences. The electric light flashes. The audience hears the knock—sees the knock.

Then the fuel is changed to Sohio Ethyl, without stopping the motor. Almost instantly the knocking stops. It's the Ethyl brand of anti-knock compound that does it! The light goes out. The motor picks up speed—proof of its increased power—runs more smoothly and more evenly.

The simple sincerity of this test has made Sohio users of thousands of Ohio motorists. Other thousands have chosen Sohio Ethyl after making their own tests in their own cars. See the Sohio anti-knock demonstration if you have an opportunity. If not, put Sohio Ethyl into your own gasoline tank and test it any way you wish. Convince yourself that there IS a difference in gasoline.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME

BY JOAN

Where safety is . there should your valuables be. Robberies are so frequent during the summer vacation period that no one should leave valuables unprotected in the home. The possibility of fire also is great. While I don't mean to be an alarmist I do want to remind you that all important papers, such as insurance policies, contracts, tax receipts, wills, deeds, heirlooms, stocks or bonds should be kept in a strong Safe Deposit Box in The First National Bank. There they will be safe from fire or thieves and may be found when wanted. The cost is so trifling that no one should be without a Safe Deposit Box.

You say "You haven't any Insurance Policies in your keeping?" I'd be ashamed to admit such a statement. If I were you I wouldn't allow another day to slip by without carrying at least one form of insurance. I'd suggest you consult The Lee C. Cooper Agency as they write every kind of insurance including Life, Fire, Theft, Cyclone and Automobile Liability. No matter what your insurance problem happens to be . . they will gladly help you solve it. Do you know what folks think when you say, you carry no insurance? They think . . ah I hate to hurt your feelings. I'll let some one else tell you.

I've been told that "to be a reporter one must have a "nose for news." I lay claim to possessing such a nose. It is my one outstanding feature but it certainly didn't stand in the way of my seeing that Berkey & Gay living room ensemble in The Frank Crook Co.'s display window. I feated my eyes on it's beauty for quite a few minutes and my curiosity still reigning supreme I flew inside and sought some information from Mr. Cordwin. For your benefit I jotted down a note or two. This is the first showing of Berkey & Gay living room furniture. This suite has a very special sale price as an introductory feature. The same thoughtful design, careful workmanship and solid construction which has been evidenced in the making of bedroom and dining room furniture is expressed in this new line of living room furniture. Notice it's color harmony!

It's really lots of fun . . making delightful frozen desserts and salads with the aid of a Frigidaire. It certainly takes the "work" out of housework. No more hurried, last minute preparations either as all the necessary details can be attended to . . hours, yes days in advance, then Frigidaire will do the rest . . chill new flavor into every course. Considering it's food preserving qualities, Frigidaire is truly an economy. There is a very interesting display of the various new models at The Crockery City Ice & Products Co. You are cordially invited to inspect them.

Having one's hair "permanented" has long ceased to be a thing of merely "making an appointment." The smart woman of today cannot be too particular when she permits other hands to care for her hair and she insists upon bona fide recommendations. And besides, she wants a wave that looks natural and is the type of coiffure that really becomes her—that's why so many prominent citizens place their confidence in the permanent wave artist at The Stern Beauty Shoppe. You will find it a real pleasure to have any beautifying work done here as they employ only the most modern and scientific methods in every branch of beauty culture.

As a safety measure, railroads inspect the trucks of trains about every hundred miles between here and New York. Why wouldn't that be a good example for every motorist to follow? Of course I don't mean 'twould be necessary to have the car inspected every hundred miles, but I do think every car owner should drive down to Milliron's Grease Palace at regular intervals and enjoy the complete crank case service offered and replenish with their motor oils which are of the best.

Careful housekeepers who insist upon having attractive cooking utensils will rejoice in these new casseroles I discovered in OGILVIE'S basement store. They come in the most glorious shade of green in various sizes and shapes. Then you might continue to carry out your color scheme with the addition of a few pieces of Old English enamel in ivory and green. Every cooking utensil imaginable can be had in this ware and it will add a lovely note of color to your kitchen. You know I can kill the most time in this department. There are so many beautiful pieces of Modernistic Art to attract one's attention, to say nothing of hundreds of practical little everyday items that tend to lighten household duties . . not forgetting the many artistic pieces of furniture to be found . . little "extras" which add so much coziness and charm to the home—these are pardonable excuses for my loafing there.

See you next Thursday.

CHRYSLER MOTORS PRODUCT

Another FINE FEATURE .. Plymouth has Over-Size Tires

The Full-Size Plymouth Two-Door Sedan, $675

YOU will find on Plymouth the largest tires of any car in the low-priced field. Real over-size balloons—4.75—more than ample for this full-size car.

That is why the improved Plymouth, with so much else to talk about, devotes an entire advertisement to over-size tires.

Many motorists lose sight of the fact that tires can make a big difference in riding ease—and forget how much tire size means to safety.

Larger tires mean riding on more air, which in turn means greater buoyance and comfort. Then, too, larger tires wear longer, add much to appearance and, most important of all, give the car greater traction which means sure-footed safety.

From tires to roof, from radiator to tank, Chrysler engineers have endowed the improved Plymouth with qualities and abilities never before available in a car of low price.

BRUNSWICK Announces "STUDIO QUALITY" RADIO RECEPTION··and proves it!

A corner of the monster set built for the Cabaret Scene In Universal's super Movie-Tone Production "Broadway"

UNTIL now, radio reception has not kept pace with broadcasting.

Almost from the advent of radio the broadcasting stations have put the greatest artists on the air. But the means available to hear them in the home have been inadequate.

It has remained for Brunswick to design and build a set that would receive broadcasts without loss of quality — that would realize the dream of the radio industry which is "Studio Quality" Radio Reception — that would enable the listener-in to hear a program exactly as though he or she were in the studio from which it was being broadcast.

It is only natural that "Studio Quality" Radio Reception should be a Brunswick achievement. For Brunswick has spent many years and many millions perfecting the reproduction of music.

The Proof of "Studio Quality" Radio Reception

Every Brunswick dealer can prove "Studio Quality" Radio Reception in his own store.

He will re-create for you the most sensational test for Tone and Reception ever conceived — a Broadcast made at 12:11 midnight, May 4th last, at the Studio of WABC, New York City.

You will hear this Broadcast just as though you had been in the Studio of Station WABC, on that date. And, at the same time, you will hear the same program just as it was received through a stock model of the NEW Brunswick Radio.

And so, for the first time, you can compare the studio performance of great artists with the work of these same artists as it sounds when received through the NEW Brunswick Radio.

The NEW Brunswick Radio is made in three models
Model 31 — Panatrope with Radio, Price $272
Model 21 — Superb highboy console-type Radio, Price $174
Model 14 — Artistically beautiful lowboy console-type Radio, Price $148
All machines are sumptuously cabinetted in fine woods
All are completely electrical — A C current Prices quoted are without tubes

"BRUNSWICK BREVITIES" — radio's greatest entertainment — goes on the air the week beginning August 19th, offering the finest entertainment that the world affords — artists such as AL JOLSON, BELLE BAKER, BEN BERNIE, NICK LUCAS, ABE LYMAN, RAY MILLER, ZELMA O'NEAL, etc. Every week Brunswick Recording Stars will participate in the most colorful feature of Radio — "BRUNSWICK BREVITIES." Popularity.. begins with a Clear Skin

IT'S the person with a clear, smooth, lovely complexion that usually wins.

To be sure, not much is said openly about skin eruptions, but secretly they influence many important affairs. Personal likes and dislikes are quickly formed.

Everybody wants to be attractive. It is a just and natural ambition. A clear skin makes everyone more attractive.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils, eczema and other skin eruptions as being an indication that the body's power of resistance is low — that there is a deficiency of red-blood-cells.

The sure way to remedy this condition is to restore the red-blood-cells to normal.

This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of those unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

S.S.S. helps Nature restore the blood to its normal state. Healthy blood makes the body strong and resistant to disease.

Without plenty of rich, red blood there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or healthy, beautiful women.

If you are troubled with so-called skin disorders or if the count of your red-blood-cells is low, take a few bottles of S.S.S. Seek energy, vitality and a clear skin through the remedy, which is made from fresh vegetable drugs, and has stood the test of over 100 years.

WEIRTON MEN ROBBED OF $300

Painters are Victims of Early Morning Holdup.

WEIRTON, W. Va., Aug. 8.—Charles Feist, 45, and Ike Fessler, 44, Weirton painters, were waylaid by holdup men on their way home at 4 o'clock this morning and robbed of $300, according to a report made to Hancock county authorities.

The men are alleged to have been beaten with clubs and stones by their assailants. Dr. M. H. Powers, Weirton physician, found Feist unconscious in the road as he was driving to his home. When he stopped to attend the victim he discovered Fessler and one of the thugs grappling a short distance away. The bandit fled when the physician approached.

The two victims were taken to their homes on the Steubenville pike by the physician.

owned companies, uses for its product only salt, and power provided by the sun's rays lifting water, will flow down from these mountains forever. When, if ever, natural salt mines are exhausted, there will remain the giant Pacific, with a higher percentage of salt than the Atlantic, receiving more salt every year from streams that flow down. You have for the life of this planet perpetual motion from the mountains, inexhaustible raw material from the ocean.

BOATS go down the Columbia from Portland under government supervision to fish. They use a seine and bring up from 2,000 to 20,000 pounds of salmon and salmon trout at a time.

FARTHER north, at Victoria, British Columbia, seines haul up from 10 to 40 tons of pilchard, a fine fish rich in oil. Factories turn the fish into oil for soap and other uses, the residne into fertilizer and feed for cattle. The ground fish is fed to cows grazing far from the ocean. Fish food, rich in iodine, keeps calves from having goiter. That statement may offend your faith-cure friend, but facts are more important than faith cure.

SOON, flying in a few hours will bring from the east capitalists who will change this territory as though by magic. Alfred E. Sloan, jr., of General Motors; Henry Ford, and especially Mr. Farrell, head of United States Steel, should come here without waiting to fly and put some of this wasted Northwestern power to work.

THE development of this country hasn't begun. Its possibilities of wealth and universal prosperity are inconceivable. The people some day will regulate their own monopolies, own their own properties, arrange their own wages. There will be plenty for all, even for the man of exceptional genius. He now demands the right to take more than he needs and give others less than they need.

Snook Admits Murder

"She fought back. I struck her again. She was reaching for her purse in which she sometimes carried a pistol. We struggled and I hit her again.

"She slid out of the car. I followed her out and as she came toward me I hit her again.

"She fell, her head striking the running board, she did not rise.

"I was crying and in great pain when I first struck her. I cannot remember hitting her more than four blows."

The witness paused. He seemed to be struggling to pull himself together.

Witness Pauses for Minute.

Snook was able to proceed after another wait of a minute or two. The only sound in the courtroom was the buzzing of an electric fan as the jury and spectators waited for him to go on.

He said he had no recollection of what took place between the time he struck the third or fourth blow and when he found himself on the running board.

His intention in striking her with the hammer, he said, was to "stop her, if at all possible."

The first blow in the machine, he said "wasn't very hard." The second blow, he declared was struck while she was getting out of the machine.

"I couldn't hit her hard," he said. "The third blow," he said, was to "stop her."

Feared Girl Would Shoot.

Snook said the idea in the back of his head while all this was going on was that she "was going to shoot me; she was reaching for the purse which I thought held her pistol."

"She had threatened me before, but I was never afraid when I could see the purse," he declared. "I had talked her out of it before.

"I certainly believed my life was in danger."

Tells Jury of Girl's Threats.

In detailing the quarrel that preceded the killing, Snook said Miss Hix declared:

"You are not going away over the week-end."

He replied that he was, that he had to go to visit his mother; that he promised her he would.

"Damn your mother!" Miss Hix cried, according to Snook.

"I'll kill her and then you won't have to go to see her."

"But I have arranged to take Mrs. Snook and the baby there," Snook declared he replied.

Then he said, Miss Hix became infuriated and shouted:

"Damn your wife I'll kill her, too, and get her out of the way."

Spectators, most of them women and girls, shuddered as Snook said he spoke to the girl and got no reply.

Snook then related how he left the body of the co-ed lying in the grass, got in his machine and drove away.

Once in his blue coupe, the so-called "murder car," he drove toward home. As he crossed a bridge he noticed Theora's purse on the seat and threw it into the Scioto river.

Snook was shown a penknife, one of the state's exhibits. Miss Hix's throat had been slashed. The state contends this slashing of the jugular vein caused death. Snook said he carried the penknife "or one like it."

The knife was lying on the floor of the automobile as he was driving home after he had slain Theora, he testified.

Next morning he found the hammer and the knife on the floor of the car.

He said he did not know if he used the knife in severing the girl's jugular vein.

Identifies Victim's Dress.

Arriving home after the murder, he said he parked the car in the garage, went into the kitchen and started to read.

"I couldn't read," he said. "And then I went back to the kitchen to try to fix a lunch."

Then, he said, he brought an old coat down from upstairs to wear to the farm at Lebanon, O., and decided it was too old, so he hung it in a closet.

Mrs. Snook, he said, came down stairs about 10:30 p. m. They had no conversation, although she "may have just said a word."

He said he couldn't read because "things didn't look right—I can't explain it, but I just couldn't read."

He went to bed in about an hour and said he slept, "as far as I know."

Next morning, he said, he get up about 8 o'clock.

He identified the dress Miss Hix wore.

He identified the cap which, he said, was in the machine when they drove to the range. He also identified the hammer and knife.

Had His Auto Washed.

Snook, becoming more self-contained, testified he tried to wash stains of the hammer and knife the next morning about 8 o'clock.

He told of going to the hospital that evening when his injured hand began to swell and pain him; the wound was treated by an interne.

At his office that forenoon, he said he had his machine washed. He looked over some papers in his office.

He told of going to the "love nest" that afternoon, paying the rent and surrendering the room.

This was between 2 and 3 o'clock. He said. Then he went to the barber shop, and home.

Still on Stand at Noon.

Snook testified he had no conversation with Mrs. Snook about what had happened the night before. He had dinner at home, and prepared his "usual late lunch."

The witness then told of his arrest Saturday morning, just after he "got up," and of being taken to police headquarters for questioning.

Rather sharply, Snook denied he had ever given Miss Hix drugs.

Snook was questioned at considerable length regarding the manner in which he was grilled at police headquarters.

Adjournment was taken until 1:30 this afternoon with Snook still on the stand.

And in a graceful gesture, as it struck out for the grandest adventur since man learned to use his wings, the Zep sent a radio message of appreciation to the American people and the American navy for their hospitality and aid.

The first radio message to be sent by the round-the-world dirigible was addressed to Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams and read:

"Leaving the shores of your wonderful country desire most urgently to express to you our admiration and sincere thanks for splendid hospitality which we have been privileged to enjoy at your naval air station at Lakehurst and for all your goodly support which made possible our pleasantly started flight around the world.

Message From Dr. Eckener.

The second message from Dr. Hugo Eckener, the bearded skipper of the airship, was addressed to Lieut. Commander M. R. Pierce, in charge of the airport here:

"On leaving your hospitable grounds, I wish to thank again yourself, officers and men of your station for the most excellent assistance and co-operation which we have had the pleasure to enjoy. Auf Wiedershen."

SPANISH KING JUST MAN IN PARIS STREETS

Madrid Ruler Passes By Unnoticed in French City.

IT SUITS HIM

Story of Sovereign's Visit Follows Dinner In Hotel.

PARIS.—(INS) — King Alfonso of Spain is just a man in the street in Paris, when he prefers this anonymity.

Crowds may fight to see a trans-Atlantic stowaway but the king passes by unnoticed unless he is put in the proper setting. That may be alright with the stowaway. It suits the king too.

On his last visit to Paris King Alfonso did not exactly travel incognito. As a matter of fact he called on President Domergue. No one knew about the official visit and no one knew that following the visit King Alfonso roamed about the boulevard and did a bit of shopping.

The story of the sovereign's unostentatious visit to Paris came out only after he had been recognized in the public restaurant of his hotel where he gave a dinner for some friends.

Even there he might have remained unperceived. Attention was first directed to his table because of the presence of Ambassador de Leon. After spotting the ambassador diners recognized King Alfonso.

An American poet who wrote very good verses in French and whose work is better known to Frenchmen than to his own countrymen has just been honored at Versailles. A stone tablet has been placed on the old house in which Stuart Merrill died.

Merrill was born in Hempstead, L. I., in 1863, but spent a large share of his life on this side. When he began to write, French seemed to be the best medium for him. Only a few of his works survive in English.

A statue of Liberty instead of Napoleon will likely be on the Place d'Armes at Grenoble, because the city council refuses to vote the sum of $20 necessary to restore the old one of the Little Emperor.

It was pulled down and destroyed after the Revolution of 1870 and replaced by the more modern one. The pieces were collected and taken to Paris with a view to restoration. The city councillors have not yet consented to the expense.

Love for a parrot recently caused the death of Monsieur Pisset, of Saint Mande.

Walking along the street, Pisset noticed that a big bird which belonged to a restaurant-keeper nearby had escaped and was perched in a tree. He immediately climbed up, determined to catch her, the limb broke and Pisset crashed to the pavement below, seriously injuring his skull. He died in the night.

A seven-foot electric cross will be erected on the spire of the Lisbon Methodist Episcopal church by Appellate Judge L. T. Farr in memory of his wife who died recently, it was announced today.

Contract for the cross has been given to Faulk and Morgan, Roger electricians.

A first edition of Gray's Elegy was sold in London recently for $5,700.

RAY KREMER WINNER FOR PITTSBURGH

Pirates' Losing Streak Broken in Defeat Of Giants.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 8.—Ray Kremer, Pittsburgh ace, halted the Pirate losing streak yesterday by downing the New York Giants in the final game of the series, 4 to 3. Stuart Clarke's single, with one out in the ninth inning, drove in the winning run.

Kremer pitched splendid ball up to ninth inning when he weakened after allowing but four hits. The Giants tied the score with a three-run rally. Larry Benton gave way to a pinch hitter during the flurry and Henry, who pitched the final frame, was credited with the defeat.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

By W. S. Cousins,
I. N. S. Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Wall Street derived considerable satisfaction in the first hour of trading today, in the failure of Bank of England heads to raise the discount rate above 5½ per cent, since this assures no upturn in American rates for the time being at least.

Favored railroad and steel stocks took the lead in the upward movement of prices, with U. S. Steel common going through to 220, up 4½ points to a new high record. It is now confidently believed that a 3-for-1 split-up in the stock will be ordered by the directors this fall, after the authorized capital has been raised from 12,500,000 shares to 25,000,000 or more.

American Steel Foundries advanced 3 points to 67½; Bethlehem was up 2 points and new gains of a point or more were recorded in Crucible, Youngstown and other steel shares.

Railroad stocks, on excellent freight car loading reports, took up with a vim the forward move which was broken off in yesterday's closing reaction. Atchison led off, with 6-point jump to 271⅝. Baltimore & Ohio sold up 1½ at 134; Chesapeake & Ohio up 1¾ at 255; Erie up 2 at 86⅛; Katy up 2 at 58½; New York Central up 3¼ at 235; Southern Pacific up a point at 143.

P. O. AIDE KILLS TWO AND SELF

Insanity Blamed in Triple Tragedy at Yonkers, N. Y.

YONKERS, N. Y., Aug. 8.—(INS)—Patrick Flynn, 32, a postoffice clerk, killed the woman in whose home he boarded and another boarder and ended his life today in what police say was a fit of insanity.

Mrs. Nora Regan, 27 and Richard Kehoe, 21, were the victims. Mrs. Regan was the wife of a policeman who had befriended Flynn and Kehoe. Mrs. Regan was shot as she lay in bed with her 14-month-old baby.

After killing Mrs. Regan and Kehoe, Flynn lay in wait for Regan and opened fire on him when the policeman returned from duty, but did not hit him. He then fled from the house and killed himself when searchers pursued him.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting.

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt found the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. He tried it in 1,000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 96 per cent, and then decided it should be sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Mathews Original Cut Rate today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and will do the same for you, or costs you nothing.—Adv.

ELKTON—LISBON ROAD IS CLOSED AS IMPROVEMENT JOB IS RUSHED

Double Traffic Over Creek Bridge at Lisbon Will be Permitted Next Week.

LISBON, Aug. 8.—Elkton-Lisbon road was closed today by the state highway department for the purpose of placing a macadam top on the highway from the Y. & O. crossing to the paved road at Elkton. This section will be closed for 10 days.

When this project is finished, it is proposed to widen the brick road.

George B. Patterson of Wellsville, who was awarded the contract for surfacing five miles of road in Elkrun township to connect with the East Liverpool-Youngstown roads, probably will pour the last concrete next Tuesday and Wednesday. Should this schedule be maintained, the new road will be opened to traffic probably the first week in September.

Double traffic probably will be maintained over the new bridge sparning Beaver creek at Lisbon on the Lincoln highway late next week according to Contractor Herman C. Armstrong. Work is under way on the approaches. Additional men have been placed on the job.

While the new section of the East Liverpool-East Palestine road in St Clair township will be open to traffic on Saturday, the highway will be closed again within a few weeks when Lewis & Copeland begin to pour concrete on the new route through Calcutta. A part of the old brick road near Calcutta is to be taken up, the highway widened and the rest given a concrete covering.

After all = = = everybody is watching CHRYSLER

Rumors about Chrysler's plans are flying thick and fast. The man in the street is saying, "Chrysler has something up its sleeve" = = Widespread gossip insists that Chrysler will soon make an announcement fully as sensational as its dramatic debut of five years ago. Everywhere you hear that Chrysler is going to write another thrilling page of automotive history. The public, which has long expected the unexpected from Chrysler, is waiting in anticipation = = Chrysler greatly appreciates the splendid compliment expressed in this nation-wide belief that something important impends—that whatever Chrysler does is of vital interest and tangible value to the motoring public. It is particularly gratifying right now, in the face of the announcements recently made or promised by other manufacturers, to have American motorists thus reiterate their implicit confidence in Chrysler's ability to stay ahead—and go even farther ahead = = The highest possible tribute to Chrysler prestige is this fact that, after all, everybody is watching Chrysler.

NO "HARD TIMES," SAYS TREASURER WHO COLLECTS $625,479 TAXES

BEAVER, Pa., Aug. 8.—County Treasurer Joseph J. Zimmerman announced a total tax collection for the discount period of $625,479.43, or about 74 per cent of the levied tax for the year, at Beaver today. This is an increase of $71,690.73 collected during the same period over last year, and according to Zimmerman, is indicative of anything but the much abused term, "hard times." Rather, it shows a trend toward county-wide thrift and plenty of money, with the possible exception of the delinquent tax collector, who will soon begin work on commission.

This is the largest collection made here during the discount period and while the valuation of the county is greater, 74 per cent of the total tax to be collected in believed to be a record for all time.

WARDWEAR TIRES

a 10,000-mile guaranteed tire at the lowest price ever known!

THE Standard WARDWEAR – while it is our lowest-priced tire – is made in the same factories, has the same fine design and carefully supervised construction, as our first-quality RIVERSIDE line.

We emphasize this fact because it is important. Too many motorists are today being confused with price-and-quality comparisons which are deceptive. Many manufacturers insist on calling "first-quality" what are actually their "second-line" tires—and suggesting that their prices are lower than Ward's by comparing them with the prices of Ward's first-quality lines!

This sort of "tangled talk" should be straightened out. All such comparisons should in reality be made only between leading makers' second lines and the WARDWEAR. When they are, Ward's prices will always be found to be lower.

In buying your tires, therefore, don't be misled by off-hand "claims" of any kind. Insist on getting the FACTS. Do not be induced to pay first-quality prices for second-quality tires. Do not be satisfied by less than a definite, specific guarantee, backed by the manufacturer, for 10,000 miles of service. Do this, and you will reach but one conclusion: that WARDWEAR prices save you MORE, and WARDWEAR quality is guaranteed to serve you BETTER, than any other tires in their class!

Visit your nearest Ward Retail Store ... examine these splendid-value tires for yourself. Tremendous sales volume, and distribution to the car-owner direct, explain why we can give you such remarkable guaranteed performance at such unusually low prices.

We carry all sizes of tires and tubes to fit all cars –at proportionate savings.

WELLSVILLE IN SECOND PLACE IN CITY LEAGUE RACE

Nash Nine Wins 3 to 1 In Chester

Nicholsons' Boys' Clubs Land on Stoffel's Curves.

Landing on Don Stoffel's curves for four hits mixed in with a sacrifice hit that produced three runs in the second, the Wellsville Nash Motors stepped into second place in the Inter-City League last night when they pounded out a 3 to 1 victory over the K. T. and K. outfit at Chester.

Schneidmiller, for Wellsville, and Stoffel for Katies, put on the twirling act. The Wellsville moundsman held the Katies to seven hits.

Although Stoffel was found for nine safe smacks he kept them well scattered with the exception of the second inning. Nine Wellsville sluggers fanned.

Maley, Talbert and Davis, for Wellsville, were the batting stars. They cracked out two hits each. Maley's single in the second scored Talbert and Canne.

The fireworks started in the second. Talbert first up, slashed a single to center. Canne singled to third, and both advanced on Tobin's sacrifice. Maley landed on one of Stoffel's benders for a single to left, scoring Talbert and Canne and he went to second on the throw to home. "Lefty" Davis then smashed out a single to center, Maley crossing the plate.

In the seventh inning Tommy Sayre led off with a single to left. He took second on Mautz's sacrifice hit. Stoffel walked. Witherow forced Stoffel at second, Sayre taking third on the play. Sayre scored when Coleman singled to right.

Loughran-Sharkey Title Battle Set For Sept. 26

Max Schmeling, Contro versial Champion, Ruled Out on Muldoon-Tunney Bequest; Yankee Stadium Gets Show.

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, August 8.—Tommy Loughran, the light heavyweight champion, and not Max Schmeling, the controversial champion, will meet Jack Sharkey for the Muldoon-Tunney bequest of the heavyweight title on September 26 and the meeting will take place at the Yankee Stadium, New York, not at Navin field, Detroit.

This today seems to be the purport of a statement issued last night by the Madison Square Garden corporation, outlining its latest policy on the heavyweight situation. It means that the Garden's war with the New York boxing commission is ended in what "Mysterious Billy" Carey, the welterweight promoter, probably would call a compromise. The boxing commission told him that he couldn't put on a Sharkey-Schmeling fight in spite of his announcement that he could and would, either here or in Detroit. It finally was settled by mutual consent; that is, the boxing commission said there would be no Sharkey-Schmeling fight and Carey consented.

Contracts Signed.

He closed with Loughran early last night, probably for a straight percentage of the receipts, after coming to a belated realization of the fact that Schmeling was due to get him nothing but a large order of bicarbonate of soda for his aching head. Sharkey already is under contract for a guarantee of $100,000, a tenth of which already is in hand, meaning Sharkey's. The noble tar has a 25 per cent privilege which probably is the figure that squared Loughran with the Garden crowd. Thomas, as a matter of fact, probably would have signed for 25 cents and the right to be good to his mother. He figures that the heavyweight championship is already his.

Whether the commission will recognize the new arrangements as a championship is not definitely known but it probably will be feeling rather benign on the head of its victory of right over might or something. Besides, it is difficult to see how the substitution of Loughran can affect the status of the title shot, except possibly for the better. He, of course, must go through with his announced intention to abandon the light heavyweight championship and this may be done at the commission, either tomorrow or next day. It virtually is ordained that the board's benediction of the Loughran-Sharkey fight will follow. It will be scheduled for 15 rounds and anybody who can't afford to lay $20 for a ringside seat will be welcome—in Central park.

FLORISTS WHITEWASH CHRISTIANS

Golden Team Gets First Blood in Series.

The Golden Flowers soft ball passers whitewashed the Wellsville Christian church team at Patterson field last night, winning 9-0.

Barr and Banks were the batting stars, each slamming home runs. The Florists had their big inning in the sixth when five runs were scored. Roberts ran back of third base to make a sensational catch for the Christians.

Last night's game was the first of a series between the two teams. The second game will be played at Wellsville next Wednesday.

SI JOHNSON AGAIN WINS OVER BLUES

Friends and Countrymen, Senators Capture Another Game.

Friends, Romans, countrymen, lend me your ears! Silas Johnson and the remainder of the Columbus Senators defeated Kansas City, the league leaders, yesterday by a 5-to-1 score.

Johnson's pitching was superb. He allowed the Blues only five hits and then kept them so well scattered that only one run was scored.

In pulling his team-mates to a victory over the league leaders in the American association pennant race, the youthful twirler repeated a performance staged in Kansas City recently when he hurled his team through to another victory over Kansas City by exactly the same score.

Perhaps there is what is termed coincidence in that, but the writer discards any such explanations and declares flatly that Si apparently has Kansas City's number.

Prepare For Maidstone Matches

Miss Virginia Rice, left, is shown on East Hampton, N. Y., courts, sharpening up her stroke in general practice at the annual Maidstone club tennis tournament. Miss Rice and Alice Francis were defeated in doubles in the first round by Evelyn Parsons and Clara Zinke. Miss Parsons, center, of California, has been exhibiting some brilliant work, and is regarded as successor to Helen Wills. At right is Mrs. Charlotte Chapin jr., ranking player, who, with Marjorie Gladman, defeated Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Endicott, Wightman cup players, in the first round of doubles. Helen Wills made her first appearance here of the season in an American tournament, partnering with Edith Cross of San Francisco.

Randall On Foutts Ring Card

Record Crowd Expected At New Brighton Tonight.

Due to the intense interest, the largest crowd which has ever witnessed a sporting event in Beaver county is expected to attend the boxing show at 9 o'clock tonight at the Junction park, New Brighton, Pa. Even the attendance record at the Willie Davies-Carl Cavelli show two weeks ago, when more than 3,000 customers filed into the grandstand and the reserved seats, it is expected will be surpassed.

In the last four fights at Junction park, tri-state boxing enthusiasts have signified their preference for large boxers, and evidently the ten-round main bout between Tiger Joe Randall, Pittsburgh colored flash, and Mike Lucas, Cleveland favorite, both 144-pounders, has caught their fancy.

Randall is Good Boy.

Randall, perhaps is better known in the tri-state district, having done most of his fighting in the Pittsburgh district. He has defeated most of the good boys in his class in and around Pittsburgh, notably Dominer Profio whom he twice kayoed and once defeated by decision, and Young Rudy, whom he knocked out in the fifth round of a scheduled ten-round bout. Lucas, on the other hand, has done much of his battling in Cleveland and Chicago, and is reputed to be equally as good as the Pittsburgher. In a recent fight he defeated Frankie Chatterton, and he also holds a decision over Paul Firrone, clever Cleveland mauler.

The first six-round semi-final will bring together two 160-pound scrappers, Mickey Solomon, popular New Castle boy, and Chuck Zelnack, Glassport football player. During the last few months Solomon participated in several main bouts at the Moose club, Pittsburgh, meeting some of the best leather pushers in his class in the district, including Buck McTiernan, Pittsburgher. Solomon and Zelnack recently fought a draw in a six-round bout at the Myers bowl, Braddock, Pa.

Thrills Are Promised.

Thrills will not be lacking in the second six-round semi-final, in which Walter Pickard, Youngstown husky, and Pat Perronie, Canton, 175-pounders, will do battle, according to Ray Foutts, matchmaker for the Beaver Valley fight club. Pickard bears quite a reputation as a kayo artist. Perronie is an aggressive fighter who has beaten Frank Munroe, veteran Pittsburgh boxer; Nick Martin and others, and scored a knockout over K. O. Husky, Akron slugger.

Fans who saw Young Jacobs, Abie Witz boxer from Canonsburg, win a decision over Rube Sanders, clever Youngstown chap, at the show about two weeks ago, are anxious to witness him in action again in the second four-round preliminary. Abie's boy will mix it with another 124-pounder, Bud Morrison, Canton.

Due to burns about the hands and arms received Monday morning while at work, Georgie Compton, Rochester, may not be able to box Gunboat Smith, Washington, in the first four-round preliminary, but Foutts has another 130-pound boy ready to meet Smith in case Compton is unable to leave the Rochester General hospital, where he was taken for treatment.

BABE RUTH ON WAY TO HOMER LEAD

George Herman Smacks Twenty-eighth at Shibe Park.

By Henry McLemore.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 8—(INS)—Mr. Babe Ruth refuses to mark time. While the remainder of his Yankee teammates seem resigned to finishing some dozen games back of the Athletics, Mr. Ruth is busily engaged in getting somewhere.

And that somewhere is what he considers his rightful place at the head of all home run hitters.

Yesterday the Babe smacked another one. It was quite a remarkable ball. It was his 28th, his third in three successive times at bat and his second in two days that came with the bases loaded. It placed him only five behind Chuck Klein of the Phillies and it helped the Yanks smother the Mackmen, 13 to 1, in the first game of their double bill. The Macks took the second game.

Youthful Dale Alexander's hitting of a home run, two doubles and a single helped Detroit no little in turning back the Indians, 14 to 4. The loss shoved Cleveland back into fourth place.

Myles Thomas held the Red Sox to six hits and the Senators turned in a 4 to 2 win.

In the only game in the National league, Pittsburgh whipped New York 4 to 3. The Giants staged a three-run rally in the ninth to tie the score, but so exhausted themselves that the Pirates had little trouble in slipping over the winning run in their share of the inning.

AT NEW YORK—Kid Chocolate, Cuba, knocked out Tommy Lorenzo, New York, in the sixth round (10).

"BIG GAME"

Story of a girl who thought love more powerful than society.

By Vida Hurst

"There's nothing you can explain," she retorted, angrily. "You did your best to ruin my evening on your own account."

"Perhaps I did," he admitted, more humbly. "But, darling, I've been terribly hurt."

"I've been hurt, too."

"Do you mind when we quarrel, Mona? Honestly?"

"Of course, I do," she answered, feeling sorrier for herself than for him. "You've been snapping at me like a cross dog. And all week I've wondered why you did not telephone."

"But don't you remember," Johnnie cried, eagerly, "the blow you handed me the last time I took you riding?"

Mona's eyes grew big. She was acting now, and rather enjoying it.

"Blow? I gave you a blow?"

"You know darned well you did."

"What was it, Johnnie?"

He eyed her suspiciously, suspecting her mood, but not anxious to change it.

"About kissing the other fellows," he said.

Mona laughed.

"Oh, darling! And I suppose you took that seriously?"

"Well, you meant it, didn't you? You certainly would not say a thing like that in fun!"

"You've known me for 21 years and you ask such a question!"

He seized her shoulders.

"Answer yes or no. Did you mean what you said that night?"

"You're hurting me, Johnnie."

"Yes or no!" he insisted.

"No! If you weren't such a silly thing you wouldn't have believed me in the first place."

His arms dropped.

"I don't know whether to believe you now or not."

"Mona," he begged, "whether you meant it or not we have to be friends."

She turned, impulsively, "I don't want to quarrel with you. It makes me very unhappy."

"So unhappy you'd lie rather than hurt me?"

"Johnnie, dear . . ."

"I know you would, Mona. But so long as you have lied to save my feelings I suppose I shouldn't care."

"I am going to be more careful," Mona promised. "Didn't I tell you I'd made a new resolution?"

"Which includes me?"

"It includes everyone," she answered. "But that should please you."

"It does. So long as you're keeping it."

How well he understood her. Almost as well as she understood him. Mona smiled with real affection in her farewell. But as she entered the house her smile faded. For Joshua Darien, grimly erect, sat in the hall waiting for her.

Mona closed the door and stood with her back against it. Every nerve in her body was braced to meet the shock of this interview. And there was scorn in the eyes which met her father's.

His voice was vaguely apologetic.

"I was surprised to see you tonight. I didn't know you were in the habit of visiting St. Paul."

"We go occasionally," Mona replied, trembling. He would try to put her in the wrong.

But his next words surprised her.

"I'm very sorry if you were embarrassed."

Touched, Mona cried, "It doesn't matter. Only, of course, I didn't suppose you did such things. . . ."

A flash of distaste crossed his face bringing back his customary expression.

"What do you mean? Is there any reason I shouldn't take a lady dancing?"

"But father, she wasn't a lady."

"That will do, Mona. I am not asking your advice as to the company I keep."

Tears welled into the blue eyes staring at him. Joshua Darien took up his coat and hat.

"I regret our meeting tonight quite as much as you do but since it's happened the best thing to do is to forget."

Forget that silly, simpering, face? She could never forget it.

He added, "You'll gain nothing by acting silly or disagreeable."

"But, father, I don't understand . . ."

"There are a great many things you aren't supposed to understand, Mona. It isn't necessary that you should. The sooner you learn to accept life as it is the better. If you don't you're going to be very unhappy."

Was he thinking of her mother? Her wistful, pathetic, little mother, who had died because she could not reconcile her ideals to life as it must be with him?

"Go to bed now," he said, not unkindly.

Mona obeyed, slipping past him like a shadow. What did he do to her? When she was with him her own personality was torn from her like a thin cloak in a blast of icy wind. Leaving her helpless and unprotected!

He was the only human being for whom she had the slightest fear. Yet he had never lifted his hand against her.

Safe in her bed, Mona planned that some day she would tell him what she really thought. Some day she intended to face him and answer back boldly.

She drew the down comforter higher about her chin. Smooth, warm, silken, thing like her mother's knee. Snuggling against it, she fell asleep . . .

The next week Mabel started the hunt for an apartment. The girls accompanied her on a six-day search, during which Mabel became more and more fastidious.

"After those on the Lake of the Isles nothing looks good to me," she complained.

In vain Ruth and Mona enthusiastically pointed out the advantages of one after the other. Mabel found something wrong with each of them and the end of a month found the young couple still living with Mabel's parents.

"Bruce is furious about it," she admitted one afternoon in the latter part of June.

The three girls were having tea on the country club veranda. Bruce and Johnnie were finishing a Saturday afternoon foursome. And Mona's eyes followed the gayly sweatered figures, idly, as Ruth replied.

"It's only natural that Bruce would be anxious to get into his own home."

"Well, can I help it if I'm not able to find anything?" Mabel inquired, irritably. "I've looked this town over. There's something the matter with every place I've seen. I'm positively discouraged."

She looked discouraged, Mona reflected. So much less radiant than she had as a bride. The discontented droop of her lips seemed to have become permanent.

Evidently marriage was not proving the glorious adventure Mabel had imagined it.

Yet who was to blame? Bruce? So far as Mona could see his consideration and tenderness had not changed.

As the men left the fairway Mona whistled and lifted one crimson clad arm. Without changing their pace Bruce and Johnnie turned in their direction.

Since the night at Peacock Inn a most satisfactory friendship had developed between Mona and Bruce.

He was always frankly delighted to see her and seemed anxious for Mabel to be with her whenever possible.

Suggesting that they do things together when Mona was sure Mabel would have preferred Ruth. Yet Mabel played up to Bruce's choice.

More than once Mona had heard herself quoted as Mabel's reason for doing something.

"It was Mona's idea," she would cry, innocently. Or, "Blame the girl friend, darling! She's the one who wants to go."

Bruce and Mona had few clashes. Her suggestions almost always proved to be something he was willing to do.

And in an impersonal, detached manner she found herself agreeing with him.

There seemed a mental affinity between them.

Bruce had a way of making quietly subtle remarks which were apt to be lost in the noisy confusion of their groups.

But they were never wasted.

His most devious fancy caused an instant of response on Mona's face. She appreciated his wit, tremendously.

As the men joined them Bruce slipped an arm about Mabel but his smile included Mona and Ruth.

"Having a good time?"
